Direct and secondary object ditransitive structures in Old Romanian

Gabriela Pană Dindelegan

"Iorgu Iordan – Al. Rosetti" Institute of Linguistics
Romanian Academy & University of Bucharest
g_dindele@yahoo.com

ABSTRACT

In the present article we investigate the ditransitive syntactic construction involving a [+animate] direct object and a [−animate] secondary object. The configuration, which was inherited from Latin, distinguishes Romanian from the other Romance languages, in which the corresponding pattern involves an indirect and a direct object. In Old Romanian, the pattern is well represented, being encountered in all types of texts. The configuration is examined in the following areas: the verbs that allow for it; the realizations of the secondary object; its particularities in Old Romanian texts.

Keywords: Old Romanian, ditransitive verbs, direct object, secondary object.

1. Introduction

Romanian has two types of ditransitive structures (see GR 2013: 66–8: (i) one in which the verb has a direct and an indirect object (V + IO +DO), as in (1a)); and (ii) one in which the verb has a direct and a secondary object (V + DO + SecO), as in (1b).

(1)   a.   (El)   trimite [cuiva]_IO   [ceva]_DO
              he   sends someone.DAT   something
              'He sends someone something.'
        b.   (El)   învaţă [pe cineva]_DO [ceva]_SecO
              he   teaches PE someone   something
              'He teaches someone something.'

The secondary object is selected by a small class of ditransitive verbs. One internal argument is syntactically encoded as a direct object with the feature [+Animate], frequently realized as an Accusative pronominal clitic (DO), and the other one, as an object with the feature [−Animate], currently realized as a DP without a differential object marker pe (GR 2013: 144–8). As far as the thematic roles in the ditransitive structure are concerned, the DO expresses the Recipient, and the SecO expresses the Theme (2a–b); the verb a trece 'to cross', encoding the Path in secondary object position, as in (2c), is an exception.[5]

(2)   a.   întru cealea ce învaţă   pre   noi_DO/RECIPIENT
              in   those that teach.3   PE   us

---

[5] In Romanian, pronouns are morphologically marked for Case (e.g., different forms for Nominative and Accusative), but the nouns have structural Case, so that morphologically, they are non-distinct when assigned Nominative or Accusative Case. We gloss the direct object nouns as Accusative because of their position.

dumndzăieştile scripturi_{SecO/THEME} divine.DEF scriptures.ACC
'in those that the Holy Scriptures teach us' (Prav.1581: 173/240r)

b. Acela te_{DO/RECIPIENT} va învăţa
   that CL.ACC.2SG AUX.FUT.3SG teach.INF
   doao bunătăţ_{SecO/THEME} folositoare de suflet
   two goodness.PL.ACC useful   of soul
   'That one will teach you two things that are good and useful for your soul' (Ev.1642: 185)

c. şi-i_{DO/RECIPIENT} va trece Marea Roşie_{SecO/PATH} and=CL.ACC.M.3PL AUX.FUT.3SG cross.INF sea.ACC red
   'and with God's power he will help them cross the Red Sea' (MC.1620: 106/15r)

The V + DO + SecO configuration, preserved from Latin (Ernout & Thomas 1959: 37), differentiates Romanian from the other Romance languages. Unlike Latin, where both objects were overtly marked as Accusatives (PUEROS DOCEO GRAMMATICAM), in Romanian only the [+human] object is preceded by a differential object marker and is in Accusative, which is clear due to the form of the pronominal clitic; the other object does not allow clitic doubling or substitution by an Accusative clitic form.

In the other Romance languages, this pattern corresponds to a structure containing a Dative and an Accusative object, as shown in (3a) for French and in (3b) for Italian.

(3) a. Je lui enseigne les   mathématiques
    I he.DAT teach.1SG DEF.ART.3PL mathematics
  b. Io gli insegno matematica
    I he.DAT teach.1SG mathematics
    'I am teaching him mathematics'

Grammarians have mentioned the existence of this syntactic pattern in Balkan languages too, considering it a Balkan Sprachbund phenomenon (Sandfeld 1930: 201-2; Feuillet 1986: 9; Mišeska Tomić 2004: 6).

When it comes to Old Romanian, from the oldest 16th century texts, the secondary object is well represented and has the characteristics of the present-day construction. Aspects that are significant for the secondary object's diachrony regard the age and continuity of the structure, the inventory of matrix verbs, and its relation with cognate objects.

2. The inventory of verbs selecting a secondary object

In Old Romanian, the secondary object is selected by the transitive verbs listed in (4a-i): a învăţa 'to teach', a întreba 'to ask', a înştiinţa 'to inform', a pohti 'to wish', a povăţui 'to advise', a ruga 'to ask', a sfătui 'to advise', a trece 'to cross'. These verbs are distributed in two subclasses: the subclass of verbs of saying (a înştiinţa 'to inform', a întreba 'to ask', a ruga 'to ask', a sfătui 'to advise') and the subclass of causative verbs (a învăţa 'to make someone learn', a trece 'to make someone cross').

(4) a. a învăţa 'to teach'

[frica]$_{SECO}$ Domnului învăţa-vă$_{DO}$-voiu*
fear.DEF.ACC God.DEF.GEN teach.INF=CL.ACC.2PL=AUX.FUT.1SG
'I shall teach you to fear God'(CP.1577: 149/58r)

b. a întreba 'to ask' [Trei întrebări]$_{SECO}$ întrebară [Iudeii]$_S$ [părinţii orbului]$_{DO}$ three questions.ACC asked Jews.DEF.NOM parents.DEF.ACC blind.man.DEF.GEN
'The Jews asked the blind man's parents three questions' (CC^2.1581: 172/9)

c. a înştiinţa 'to inform' care înştiinţând [toate acestea]$_{SECO}$ [pe meghistanii Porţii]$_{DO}$ who informing all these.ACC PE high.officials.DEF Ottoman.Empire.DEF.GEN
'who, informing the high officials of the Ottoman Empire about all these' (CIst.1709–19: 30/121r)

d. a pohti 'to wish' Aceasta$_{SECO}$ poftesc pe dumneata$_{DO}$ this.F.ACC wish.1SG PE you.MID.POL.2SG.ACC
'These things I wish to you' (ISB: 70/27)

e. a povăţui 'to advise'
nu-i$_{DO}$ povăţui [pre dânşii]$_{DO}$ [Dumnezău]$_S$ not=CL.ACC.3PL advise.PS.3SG PE they.ACC God.NOM [calea pământului Filistiin]$_{SECO}$ way.DEF.ACC≡NOM land.DEF.GEN Philistine
'God did not tell them the way to the land of the Philistines' (BB.1688: 48–49/17)

f. a pârî 'to denounce' Şi [alte multe]$_{SECO}$ ca aceste îl$_{DO}$ pârâsă ciocoii and other many.ACC like these CL.ACC.3SG denounce.PLUPERF.3PL boyars.NOM
'And the boyars had said many other things like these against him' (NL.1750–66: 377)

g. a ruga 'to ask' Derept-acea rugăm pre domniavoastră$_{DO}$ [se puteţi face for=this ask.1PL PE you.2PL/SG SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ can.2PL do.INF
ca se ne tocmim binişor]$_{SECO}$ (DÎ.1592: LXXXII)
CA SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ CL.ACC.1PL negociate.SUBJ.1PL well
'For this reason we ask you to find a way for us to reach an agreement'

h. a sfătui 'to advise', 'to plot' toate [ce]$_{SECO}$ s$_{DO}$-au sfătuit boierii împotriva lui all that.ACC≡NOM CL.REFL.ACC.3PL=have plotted boyars.DEF.NOM against him
'all that the boyars plotted against him' (CIst.1709–19: 99/139v)

i. a trece 'to cross'

i-au luat de i_{DO}-au trecut [Dunărea]_{SECO}, de ceea CL.ACC.3PL=has taken and CL.ACC.3PL=have crossed Danube.DEF.ACC from that parte în Misia
side in Misia
'he took them and he helped them cross the Danube from that side to Misia' (CIst.1709–19: 171/38v)

3. Implementation

The structure of the constituent that qualifies as a secondary object can vary, and it is preserved in Modern Romanian. Thus, in this position we may find:

● a definite or indefinite DP (5a–d):

(5) a. Învaţă [pre noi]_{DO} cu bună înţelepţie teaches PE we.ACC.1PL with good wisdom [calea spăseniei]_{SECO} way.DEF.ACC repentance.DEF.GEN
'He teaches us very wisely how to repent ourselves' (CC².1581.Predoslovie: 2/19–20)

b. [elu-l]_{DO} învăţa soru-sa_S he.ACC=CL.ACC.M.3SG teach.IMPERF.3SG sister.NOM=his Polhiriia [toată înţelepciunea]_{SecO}
Polhiriia all wisdom.DEF.ACC
'his sister Polhiria was teaching him all the wisdom' (MC.1620: 142-56r)

c. le trimise împăratul un popî CL.DAT.3PL sent.PS.3SG emperor.DEF.NOM a priest de cei jidoveşti, să-i_{DO} înveaţe leagea of those Jewish SĂ_{SUBJ}=CL.ACC.3PL teach.SUBJ law.DEF.ACC
'the emperor sent them a Jewish preacher, to teach them the law' (VCaz.1643: 116/5/161v)

d. Şi voi învăţa [al mieu cuvânt]_{SECO} [pre voi]_{DO} and AUX.FUT.1SG teach.INF AL my word.ACC PE you.ACC
'And I shall teach you my word' (DPar.1683: 109/II.5v)

Among the verbs entering SecO configurations, a învăţa 'to teach' can also select a bare NP, as in (6a–c).

(6) a. deci o_{DO} învăţară [carte]_{SECO} şi o creştinară
so CL.ACC.F.3SG taught book.ACC and CL.ACC.F.3SG baptized
'so they taught her and they baptized her' (MC.1620: 181/107r)

b. Aşijdere şi cătră Timotei scrie de-l_{DO} învaţă alike also to Timothy writes and=CL.ACC.M.3SG teaches [aşea credincios cuvânt]_{SECO}
such faithful word.ACC
'He also writes this to Timothy and teaches him words of faith'

28

(VCR.1645: 212/18v)

   c.   să   înveaţe [pr<e> ei]$_{DO}$ în limba   haldeilor   [carte]$_{SECO}$ SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ teach.SUBJ PE they.ACC in language.DEF Chaldeans.DEF.GEN book.ACC
        'to teach them in the language of the Chaldeans' (VT.1679–99: 283r)

●   an DP headed by a pronoun – an indefinite quantifier (7a–c), a pro-sentence feminine demonstrative with neutral reading, either alone (7d, f) or modified by a universal quantifier (7e), by an interrogative or by a relative (7g).

(7)   a.   [Nemică altă]$_{SECO}$ nu învaţă [pre noi]$_{DO}$ [Domnulŭ]$_S$ nothing other.ACC   not teaches PE us   God
        'God teaches us nothing else' (CC^2.1581: 394/33)
   b.   Învaţă   şi [pre mine]$_{DO}$ [ceva]$_{SECO}$ teaches   also PE me   something.ACC
        'He also teaches me something'(FD.1592–604: 145/527r)
   c.   Şi aşa să-l$_{DO}$ întreabe [pre acela]$_{DO}$ foarte cu   dinadinsul and so SĂ$_{SUBJ}$=CL.ACC.3SG ask.SUBJ PE that.ACC very with diligence [una după alta]$_{SECO}$
        one after another.ACC
        'And he should ask him questions one after the other very diligently' (AD.1722–5: 302)
   d.   Şi [aceasta]$_{SECO}$ învaţă   pre noi$_{DO}$ Dumnezeu, and this.F.ACC teaches PE we.ACC God
        să   nu ţinem   pizmă
        SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ not hold.SUBJ   envy
        'And this is what God teaches us, not to envy others' (CC^2.1581: 47/11-12)
   e.   [Toate acestea]$_{SECO}$ den dumnezeeştile scripturi să   ne$_{DO}$ all   these.F.PL.ACC   from divine.DEF   scriptures SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ CL.ACC.1PL învăţămŭ
        learn.SUBJ.1PL
        'Let us learn all these from the Holy Scriptures'(CC^2.1581: 200/9)
   f.   Şi   domnul nostru Iisus Hristos [aceasta]$_{SECO}$ ne$_{DO}$ and   lord.DEF our   Jesus Christ this.F.SG.ACC   CL.ACC.1PL
        învaţă în sfânta   Evanghelie teaches in holy.DEF   Evangel
        'And our Lord Jesus Christ teaches us these in the Holy Evangel'
        (AD.1722–5: 227)
   g.   întru cealea [ce]$_{SECO}$ învaţă   [pre noi]$_{DO}$
        in   those that.ACC   teach.3PL   PE we.ACC [dumnedzăieştile   scripturi]$_S$ divine.DEF   scriptures
        'in those that the Holy Scriptures teach us' (Prav.1581: 173/240r)

●   a clause headed by a complementizer (8a–g) or an infinitival clause (8h). Complementizers vary according to the type of reported sentence: in (8a–b), where a declarative clause is changed into the indirect speech, că and cum că 'that' are selected; in (8c), where interrogatives are changed into reported speech, either de 'whether' (in the case of total interrogatives) or cum 'how' (in the case of partial interrogatives) is selected; in (8d–f), where imperative/directive clauses are subordinated to a reporting verb, să, ca să, ca are selected; (8g), where the verb is a causative, the archaic complementizer de is selected. The complementizer de is different from the interrogative de in (8c).

29

(8)   a.   şi-i$_{DO}$ pârâè   la Poartă [că sunt   haini]$_{SECO}$ and=CL.ACC.M.3PL denounced at Empire that are   malicious
'and he denounced them to the Ottomans that they were malicious' (NL.1750–66: 283)

b.   şi l$_{DO}$-au   pârât   la veziriul Gin Alui-paşa and CL.ACC.M.3SG=have   denounced at vizier.DEF Gin Alui=pasha [cum că este hain,   agiunsu cu moscalii]$_{SECO}$
that that is   malicious conspiring with Russians.DEF
'and they denounced him to the vizier Gin Alui-pasha, saying that he was malicious and conspiring with the Russians' (NL.1750–66: 283)

c.   întrebară Iudeii$_S$ [părinţii   orbului]$_{DO}$:
ask.PS.3PL Jews.DEF parents.DEF.ACC blind.man.DEF.GEN [de   iaste feciorulŭ lorŭ] (...) şi [cumŭ veade] whether (he)is son.DEF their   and how   sees
'The Jews asked the parents of the blind man if he was their son and how he could see' (CC^2.1581: 172/9)

d.   Cela   ce va   sfătui   [pre muiare]$_{DO}$ the.one that AUX.FUT.3SG advise.INF PE woman.ACC [să   fure   de la bărbat]$_{SECO}$ SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ steal.SUBJ from man
'The one that will advise women to steal from their husbands' (Prav.1646: 47)

e.   şi ne$_{DO}$ învaţă [ca să   ne
and CL.ACC.1PL teaches CA SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ CL.REFL.ACC.1PL
izbăvimŭ   de păcate]$_{SECO}$
absolve.SUBJ of sins
'and he teaches us so that we should be absolved of our sins' (CC^2.1581: 60/13)

f.   Că   învaţă   [pre noi]$_{DO}$ [ca nu ne   trebuiască   multŭ]$_{SECO}$ because teaches PE we.ACC   CA not CL.ACC.1PL need.SUBJ.3SG much 'Because he teaches us not to need much' (CC^2.1581: 157/34)

g.   Şi-l$_{DO}$ învâţâ   [de-ş   aruncă toiagul and=CL.ACC.M.3SG teach.PS.3SG   that=CL.REFL.DAT.3SG throws staff.DEF înaintea lui   Faraon]$_{SECO}$
before   LUI.GEN Pharaoh
'And teaches him to throw his staff before Pharaoh' (VCaz.1643: 46/2/58)

h.   Că   să-ară   fi fostŭ şi Thoma cu   nuşii (...), nici because if=AUX.COND.3SG be been also Thomas with them   not.even ară   fi învăţatŭ [oamenii]$_{DO}$ [a crede]$_{SECO}$
AUX.COND.3SG be learned people.DEF.ACC A$_{INF}$ believe.INF

'Because if Thomas had been with them, he wouldn't teach them to believe'
(CC^2.1581: 131/18)

Present-day Romanian does not have the complementizer ca any longer; de$_1$, de$_2$ and ca să are restricted to non-standard Romanian (dialectal and colloquial).

Except for a trece 'to cross', which cannot introduce a reported sentence, the other verb behave as such. As reportative verbs, they can introduce direct speech, as in (9a, b). The absence of a complementizer in these examples also indicates that the reported clause is not embedded.

(9)   a.   eu l-am   întrebat denaintea a   omeni buni
                I CL.ACC.3SG=have asked   before   A$_{GEN}$ people good [furatu-i-au   au năpast(ă) iaste] stolen=CL.DAT.3SG=has   or slander is
                'I asked him in front of good people whether he had stolen from them or he was wrongly accused' (DRH.A.1635: 70)

        b.   şi i-au   întrebat, [merge-or   cu dânsul and CL.ACC.3PL=have asked   go.INF=AUX.FUT.3PL with him la Moscu   au ba?]
                at Moscow or not
                'and they asked them, will they go with them to Moscow or not?'
                (NL.1750–66: 252)

For the verbs that can introduce reported speech, clausal constructions are more numerous than nominal or pronominal configurations (for example, in CC^2.1581, in the first 400 pages, the occurrence ratio is 32 clausal realizations versus only 5 realizations as an NP).

●   relative clause, headed by pronominal (10a) and adverbial relatives (10b):

(10)   a.   şi voi   învăţa   [pre tine]$_{DO}$ [ce vei   grăi]$_{SECO}$ and AUX.FUT.1SG teach.INF PE you.ACC what AUX.FUT.2SG speak.INF
                'and I shall teach you what to say' (PO.1582: 143)

        b.   ş-au   învăţatŭ [pre noi]$_{DO}$ [cumŭ să lăsămŭ   noi greşalele and=have.3 taught   PE we   how SĂ$_{SUBJ}$ forgive.SUBJ we mistakes.DEF fraţilor   noştri]$_{SECO}$ brothers.DEF.GEN   our
                'and they taught us how to forgive the mistakes of our brothers'
                (CC^2.1581: 46/36)

4. Syntactic variation

Like in present-day Romanian, the secondary object in Old Romanian displays syntactic variation (syntactic instability). The SecO structure is attested in synonymous structures in which a prepositional object with the prepositions de 'about', spre 'towards', cu 'with', într(u) 'in' (11a–e), or a Dative object (11f–g) correspond to the secondary object; it is rare that an indirect object, either with an inflectional (12a) or with an analytic marker (12b–c), corresponds to the direct object.

(11) a. Cum şi Petr apostol ne   învaţă de-aceasta as   also Peter apostle CL.ACC.1PL teaches of=these
         'As apostle Peter teaches us these'(VCR.1645: 208/15v)

     b. Acela va   întreba pre noi   de toate lucrurile noastre that AUX.FUT.3SG ask   PE we.ACC of all   things.DEF   our ceale reale
        CEL   bad
        'He will ask us about all our bad deeds'(Ev.1642: 44)

     c. să-i   învăţăm   spre   mai bună viaţă
        SĂ_SUBJ=CL.ACC.3PL teach.SUBJ.1PL   towards   more good life
        'to teach them to lead a better life' (CC².1581: 396/17)

     d. cu aceaia învaţă   noi
        with that   teaches   us
        'he teaches us that' (CC².1581: 97/24)

     e. carei suntŭ învăţaţi într-aceastea who are   taught   in=these
        'who have been taught these things'(CC².1581: 27/22)

     f. şi cărărilor   tale învaţă-mă and ways.DEF.PL.DAT your teach.IMP=CL.ACC.1SG
        'and teach me your ways' (CP.1577: 114/40v)

     g. de învaţă   pre noi smereniei   şi săraciei
        and (he)teaches PE we.ACC humbleness.DEF.DAT and poverty.DEF.DAT
        'and teach us humbleness and poverty' (CC².1581: 260/4)

(12) a. Dumnezeu amu [tuturorŭ oamenilorŭ]_IO învaţă
         God   now all.DAT people.DEF.PL.DAT teaches [să   se   iubească]
         SĂ_SUBJ CL.REFL.ACC love.SUBJ
         'Now God teaches all the people to love one another'   (CC².1581: 290/10)

     b. de va   fi episcop să-ş   întreabe leage
        if AUX.FUT.3SG be bishop SĂ_SUBJ=CL.REFL.DAT.3SG ask.SUBJ law [la mitropolitul lui]_IO at metropolitan his
        'if he becomes bishop he should ask his metropolitan about the law' (ŞT.1644: 164/44)

     c. de meargeţi voi acmu a întreba   sfat şi înţelepciune
        if go   you now A_INF ask.INF   advice and   wisdom [la Belzev]_IO
        at Belzev
        'if you go now to ask Belzev for advice and wisdom'(VT.1679–99: 122v)

In the case of a trece 'to cross', which encodes the Path in secondary object position, variation includes prepositional constructions with preste/prespre 'above, across':

32

(13) a. cumu i-au   `trecut`   `prespre` Marea   Mohorătă în pustie how   CL.ACC.3PL=has crossed across   sea.DEF dark   in desert
          'how he helped them cross the Red Sea and arrive in the desert'(PO.1582: 16)

      b. şi   i-au trecut   pre toţi `preste Nistru`
          and CL.ACC.3PL=has crossed PE all   across Dniester
          'and they helped them all cross the Dniester' (NL.1750–66: 255)

An explanation for the syntactic variation seen with secondary objects should probably be related to the avoidance of structures in which the two (direct and secondary) internal arguments occur, in some contexts, without formal differentiation (14a). For this reason, since Old Romanian, this structure frequently occurs with a marked realization of the direct object, as a pronominal clitic or as a prepositional construction, and with a clausal realization of the secondary object, as in (14b–c).

(14) a. Trei întrebări_{SECO} întrebară Iudeii_S părinţii_{DO}   orbului three questions.ACC   asked   Jews.DEF parents.DEF.ACC blind.man.DEF.GEN
          'The Jews asked the parents of the blind man three questions'(CC^2.1581:172/9)

      b. învaţă-mă   [să   fac   voia   ta] teach.IMP=CL.ACC.1SG SĂ_{SUBJ} do.SUBJ will.DEF your
          'teach me how to do your will' (CC^2.1581: 5/1)

      c. Că   învaţă   `pre noi` [ca nu   trebuiască multŭ] that (he)teaches PE us   CA not need.SUBJ much
          'That he teaches us not to need much' (CC^2.1581: 157/34)

5. Lost features

The secondary object is attested in all types of old texts, original and translated. No significant differences occur between the two stages of Old Romanian (1510–1650 vs. 1650–1780). During this timeline, secondary objects display a number of peculiarities that are lost in Modern Romanian. For example:
●   The inventory of verbs has changed: two neologisms are included in this class (a anunţa pe cineva ceva 'to announce someone something', a examina pe cineva ceva 'to examine someone') and a few terms are lost, due to semantic changes (e.g., a tocmi 'to teach, to show', see (15a)) or to changes in the thematic grid (e.g., a mărturisi 'to confess, to state', which is no longer reflexive (15b)).

(15) a. cert   pre fieştecarele   şi tocmesc [`pre ei`]_{DO} [`poruncile` lui scold.1 PE   each.one.ACC   and teach   PE   them   commandments of Dumnezeu şi   `leagea` lui]_{SECO} God   and law.DEF his
          'I scold each one and I teach them God's commandments and his law'

      b. însămi [`pri mene`]_{DO} mărturescu cu   cest   zapis   al miu, myself PE   me   confess   with this   document AL my [că mi-amu   vâ<n>dut a   mea deraptă parte de ocină şi moşie]_{SECO} that CL.DAT.1SG=have sold   AL my rightful part   of   land   and land

'with this document I myself state that I have sold that part of the land which was rightfully mine'(DÎ.1587: LXVIII)

● The most striking feature is related to a lexical property of Old Romanian: the frequent occurrence of cognate objects. In the case of verbs that are usually used as transitives with a human direct object, encoding the RECIPIENT (a blagoslovi pe cineva 'to bless someone', a căzni pe cineva 'to torture someone', a chinui pe cineva 'to make someone suffer', a pârî pe cineva 'to denounce someone', a plânge pe cineva 'to mourn for someone', a săruta pe cineva 'to kiss someone' etc.) or the BENEFICIARY (a păgubi pe cineva 'to cause someone to lose something'), the possibility appears to lexicalize the THEME/CONTENT as a cognate object (IntO), a fact that expands the class of verbs occurring in configurations with SecO, as in (16). This option decreases considerably in Modern Romanian.

(16) a. Sărutaţi-mă sărutare de apoi kiss.IMP.2PL=CL.ACC.1SG   kiss   of after
   'Give me one last kiss' (CS_V.1590–602: 37r)

   b. prinse   a-l   lăuda laude mari started   A_INF=CL.ACC.M.3SG praise.INF praises great
   'he started to praise him greatly' (FD.1592–604: 143/520r)

   c. Rugă pre Daniil ceastă rugare
   requested   PE Daniel this   request
   'he asked Daniel this' (VT.1677–99: 144/289r)

   d. şi plânseră pre el   plângere mare şi   tare   foarte and cried.3   PE him   cry   great and intense very
   'and they shed many tears for him' (BB.1688: 38/10)

   e. şi-au   aflat vreme a-l   pârî and-have.3   found time   A_INF=CL.ACC.M.3SG denounce.INF feliuri de feliuri de   pâri   sorts of sorts of denouncements
   'and they found the opportunity to say all kinds of things against him'
      (NL.1750–66: 52)

The pattern with a cognate secondary object is attested throughout the analyzed period and it occurs in different types of texts (original, translated with a freer syntax, such as "popular" narrative texts, or religious translations) and in texts from different regions (Transylvania, Moldovia, Wallachia, Banat-Hunedoara). In some constructions, the direct object is realized as a reflexive clitic (17a, e). Many of the cognate secondary object constructions are part of a pleonastical pattern with headed relative clauses, in which the relative – in SecO position, referentially resumes its antecedent from the matrix clause, as in (17a–h).

(17) a. şi nevoinţă ce se-au   nevoit
   and strive   that CL.REFL.ACC=have strived
   'and how much they strived' (DÎ.1600: XXXIII)

   b. pentru blagoslovenia ce   l-au   blagoslovit for   blessing.DEF that   CL.ACC.3SG=has   blessed
   'for the blessing that he cast upon him' (BB.1688: 20/41)

   c. după multe cazne   ce l-au   căznit pe Costandin Vodă

after many tortures that CL.ACC.3SG=has tortured PE Constantin prince ‘after how much he tortured prince Constantin’ (CIst.1709–19: 119/146r)

d.   dupe multă goană　　　ce i-au　　　　　　gonit　　　pe tătari after much driving.away that CL.ACC.M.3PL=has driven.away PE Tartars ‘after he drove the Tartars away’ (CIst.1709–19: 179/51r)

e.   spuind şi　lauda　　ce　li　　　　să　　　lăudase　　　turcul telling also praise.DEF that CL.DAT.3PL CL.REFL.ACC. boast.PLUPERF Turk.DEF ‘telling them about the Turk’s words of praise’ (CIst.1709–19: 85/135v)

f.   Mustrările　ce l-au　　　　　　　mustrat　　　　　　pe Staicul remorses.DEF that CL.ACC.3SG=have caused.remorse　　　PE Staicul
‘the remorse that Staicu felt’　　　(CIst.1709–19: 44/124r)

g.   pentru pâra　　　　ce-l　　　　pârâse
for　　denouncement that=CL.ACC.3SG denounce.PLUPERF.3SG ‘for the fact that he had denounced him’ (NL.1750–66: 124)

h.   le-u　　　　　　părut　rău　de păgubirea ce-au　　păgubit ţara
CL.DAT.3PL=have seemed badly of loss.DEF　　that=has hurt　country.DEF
‘they felt sorry for the losses they had caused to their country’
(NL.1750–66: 177)

The cognate object pattern, irrespective of the syntactic position it concerns (SecO, DO, S etc.), occurs predominantly in the language of biblical translations, where it reproduces a Greek model, which, in turn, reproduces the Hebrew text (Arvinte 2004).

However, examples of cognate objects occur outside the religious texts as well. For example, they also occur in original documents (DÎ), in the narrative text of „popular” books (FD), and, later, at Neculce, an 18th century chronicler, who represents a „popular” stylistic direction. The cognate pattern is also the source for idiomatic expressions, such as a-l lăuda laude mari ‘to praise one greatly’; or a-l pârî feliuri de feliuri de pâri ‘to say all kinds of things against someone’). Therefore, there is a second source of this pattern, besides religious texts. It is certain, however, that the frequency and the overuse of cognate objects in biblical translations is due to the religious literary pattern (for frequency and overuse data, see BB.1688).

6. Conclusions

● Romanian preserved from Latin the V + DO + SecO configuration, which differentiates it from the other Romance languages. Interestingly, the same configuration is found in other Balkan languages as well.

● In Old Romanian, the secondary object is selected by two subclasses of ditransitive verbs: verbs of saying (they can introduce the direct speech) and causative verbs; the verb a învăţa ‘to teach’ is the most frequent.

● The most numerous realizations of the secondary object are clausal constructions and pro-sentence feminine pronominals (demonstrative and indefinite) with neutral reading.

● In the context of the syntactic variation in Old Romanian, the secondary object is of utmost importance. The variation concerns both the secondary object (in competition with the prepositional object) and the direct object (in competition with the indirect one).

● A special type of configuration typical to Old Romanian is the one in which the secondary object has a cognate realization, as a result of the externalization of the Theme/Content (îl părăşte "CL.ACC.M.3SG denounces" > îl pârăşte pâri "CL.ACC.M.3SG denounces denouncements", îl mustră "CL.ACC.M.3SG reprimand" > îl mustră mustrări "CL.ACC.M.3SG reprimand reprimands").

Corpus

AD.1722–5   Ştrempel, G. (ed). 1962. Antim Ivireanul, Predici. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

BB.1688   (anonymous ed.). 1988. Biblia lui Şerban Cantacuzino. Bucharest: Editura Institutului Biblic şi de Misiune al Bisericii Ortodoxe Române.

CC².1581   Puşcariu, S. & A. Procopovici (eds). 1914. Diaconul Coresi, Cartea cu învăţătură. Bucharest: Atelierele Grafice Socec.

CIst.1709–19 Dragomir, O. 2006. Istoria Ţării Rumâneşti atribuită stolnicului Constantin Cantacuzino. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

CP.1577   Toma, S (ed.). 1976. Diaconul Coresi, Psaltirea slavo-română (1577) în comparaţie cu psaltirile coresiene din 1570 şi din 1589. Bucharest:Editura Academiei.

CS$_V$.1590-602 Chivu, G. (ed.). 1993. Codex Sturdzanus. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

DÎ   Chivu, G.; M. Georgescu; M. Ioniţă; A. Mareş; A. Roman-Moraru (eds). 1979. Documente şi însemnări româneşti din secolul al XVI-lea. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

DPar.1683   Ungureanu, M. 2012. Dosoftei, Parimiile preste an. Iaşi: Editura Universităţii Alexandru Ioan Cuza.

DRH.A.1635 (anonymous ed.). 1996. Documenta Romaniae Historica, A. Moldova, XXIII. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

Ev.1642   Gherman, A.M. (ed.). 2011. Evanghelie învăţătoare (Govora, 1642). Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

FD.1592-1604 Roman Moraru, A. (ed.). 1996. Floarea darurilor in: Cele mai vechi cărţi populare I. Bucharest: Editura Minerva.

ISB   Nicolae Iorga. 1925. Scrisori de boieri. Vălenii de Munte.

MC.1620   Mihăilă, G. (ed.). 1989. Mihail Moxa, Cronica universal. Bucharest: Editura Minerva.

NL.1750–66 Iorgu, I. (ed.). 1959. Ion Neculce, Letopiseţul Ţării Moldovei şi O samă de cuvinte. Bucharest: Editura de Stat pentru Literatură şi Artă.

PO.1582   Arvinte, V.; I. Caproşu; Al. Gafton (eds). 2005. Palia de la Orăştie. Iassy: Editura Universităţii Alexandru Ioan Cuza.

Prav.1581   Rizescu, I. (ed.). 1971. Pravila ritorului Lucaci. Bucharest: Editura Academiei.

ŞT.1644   Mazilu, I. (ed.). 2012. Şeapte taine ale besearecii, Iaşi, 1644. Iassy: Editura Universităţii Alexandru Ioan Cuza.

VCaz.1643   Byck, J. (ed.). 1943. Varlaam, Carte românească de învăţătură. Bucharest: Fundaţia Regală pentru Literatură şi Artă.

VCR.1645   Teodorescu, M. (ed.). 1984. Răspunsul împotriva catihismusului calvinesc. Bucharest: Editura Minerva.

VT.1679–99 Dima, C-I. (ed.). 2009. O traducere inedită a Vechiului Testament din secolul al XVI-lea. Bucharest: Editura Universităţii din Bucureşti.

References

Arvinte, Vasile. 2004. Normele limbii române literare în Biblia de la Bucureşti (1688). Iaşi: Editura Universităţii „Alexandru Ioan Cuza".

Ernout, Alfred, François Thomas. 1959. Syntaxe latine. Paris: Klincksieck.

Feuillet, Jack. 1986. La linguistique balkanique. Cahiers balkaniques 10: 3–121.

Mišeska Tomić, Olga. 2004. The Balkan Sprachbund Properties. In Olga Mišeska Tomić (ed.), Balkan Syntax and Semantics. 1-55. Amsterdam: John Benjamins.

GR 2013 − Gabriela Pană Dindelegan (ed.), The Grammar of Romanian, Oxford, Oxford University Press.

Sandfeld, Kristian. 1930. Linguistique balkanique. Paris: Champion.