TWO TYPES OF UNMARKED GENITIVES IN CONTEMPORARY ROMANIAN

In Romanian, the genitive case is marked either by synthetic, enclitic markings (școala băiatului ‘the boy’s school’) or by analytic, proclitic markings (școala lui Ion ‘Ion’s school’). In some syntactic contexts, both types of markings are present, either in standard language (școala nouă a elevului<sup>1</sup> ‘the boy’s new school’) or in non-standard varieties (școala a multor elevi (‘the school of many children’ – see GBLR: 64). Two types of contexts in which the genitive case is not marked have been described in the literature: with a bare kinship noun and a possessive affix, in dialectal varieties<sup>2</sup>, as in (1), and with an abbreviated noun, as in (2):

(1) ochiul soacră-șa
eye.DEF mother-in-law=his/her.NOM≡ACC
‘the eye of his / her mother-in-law’ (see Pană Dindelegan 2013: 271–272)

(2) angajații RADET
employee.PL.DEF RADET<sup>3</sup>
‘the employees of RADET’ (see Pană Dindelegan 2013: 272).

In this article we show that there are two more types of unmarked genitives in contemporary Romanian. The first type is found in structures like the ones in (3), taken from the online press and other websites:

<sup>1</sup> The presence of the genitive marker al (inflected for gender and number, in agreement with the Possessee) is required whenever the genitive noun is not adjacent to the definite article of the Possessee; al has been described as a determiner or as a pronoun (for a description of these contexts, see Dobrovie-Sorin and Giurgea 2013: 311–313, Pană Dindelegan 2013: 265–268 a.o.).

<sup>2</sup> This type of structure was preserved in dialectal varieties from the old language: pentru chipul soțu-său (Coresi, CC<sup>2</sup>, p. 314) ‘for her husband’s face’; va sări înaintea domnu-său (Fl. darurilor, 536<sup>v</sup>) ‘(s)he will jump before his/her master’; rana stăpânu-mieu s-au tămaduit (Sindipa, 87<sup>v</sup>) ‘my master’s wound has healed’ – see Stan 2013: 100, Pană Dindelegan 2016: 323. With this type of possessive structures, the dative case can also be unmarked: Iară păzitorii și portarii se mirară și cursără de spuseră domnu-său... (Fl. darurilor, 487<sup>v</sup>) ‘Then the guards and the gatekeepers were surprised and went and told their master...’; Robul înțeleptu cu credință lucrează domnu-său. (ibid., 522<sup>v</sup>) ‘The wise slave works for his master with loyalty’.

(3) a. Ești fan ciocolată? (bitpress.ro, <https://bit.ly/3kzfjhx>)

In this kind of examples, which are very frequent in standard language, the nouns which immediately follow fan are unmarked for case and have the default form (identical with the nominative-accusative form), irrespective of their type (common and proper nouns, in the singular or plural, countable or uncountable etc.). The interpretation of these juxtaposed nouns is that of a genitive (a fan of...). They are not invariable nouns, they have the morphological property of displaying case marking; they do so either enclitically, in the definite form (ciocolatei, cumpărăturilor, Celiiei, Stelei) or with proclitic markers (lui Victor Ponta, lui Iohannis). The unmarking of the genitive is not obligatory. In the same type of texts, the structures where the genitive is marked are equally frequent:

(4) a. nu ești un fan al ciocolatei (www.livebiz.ro, <https://bit.ly/3kvPdvQ>)
 not be.PRES.2SG a fan AL.M.SG
chocolatei chocolate.DEF.GEN

d. Nefiind un fan al lui Klaus Iohannis, de data aceasta încerc să îl înțeleg. (orange.ro, <https://oran.ge/35ybnZ2>)

e. Monologul impresionant al unui fan al Stelei. (prosport.ro, <https://bit.ly/3ktNRBT>).
 Steaua.DEF.GEN
 ‘The impressive monologue of a Steaua supporter.’

How can the structures with unmarked genitives be explained? Since these nouns are not invariable, we should look into the semantic and syntactic features of the noun fan which allow the unmarking. Let us remark that nouns with similar meanings do not display the same ability of allowing unmarked genitives:

(5) a. **Ești iubitor / pasionat / amator ciocolată?*
 be.PRES.2SG lover passionate lover chocolate
 ‘Do you love chocolate?’

b. **Nu sunt admirator / simpatizant Iohannis.*
 not be.PRES.1SG admirer sympathizer Iohannis
 ‘I am not an admirer / sympathizer of [president] Iohannis’

The synonym nouns in (5) occur in structures with the preposition de (about) followed by a noun in the accusative case (as in (6a)) or with a noun marked for the genitive case (as in (6b)):

(6) a. Ești iubitor de / pasionat de / amator de ciocolată?
 be.PRES.2SG lover of passionate of lover of chocolate
 'Do you love chocolate?'
 b. Nu sunt admirator / simpatizant al lui
 not be.PRES.1SG admirer sympathizer AL.M.SG LUI.GEN
Iohannis.
Iohannis
 'I am not an admirer / sympathizer of [president] Iohannis'

The noun fan has been recently borrowed from English and French<sup>4</sup> (according to MDA), as an abbreviation from fanatic. In English, it is followed by a prepositional genitive: a fan of heavy metal, a fan of Art Deco, a fan of Jen's new boyfriend (cf. Farlex Dictionary of Idioms, via thefreedictionary.com). Therefore, the unmarking of the genitive in Romanian cannot be explained as a foreign influence.<sup>5</sup> We believe it is the semantic structure of the noun fan that allows for the use of the unmarked genitive. Fan has a relational meaning, it is a predicate with two argument slots, which requires a complement NP/DP. Its saturation can be accomplished with a NP/DP (as in (3) and (4) above) or it can be retrieved from the context<sup>6</sup>:

(7) a. Știu că adori ciocolata,
 know.PRES.1SG that adore.PRES.2SG chocolate.DEF
dar eu nu sunt fan.
 but I not be.PRES.1SG fan
 'I know you love chocolate, but I am not a fan'.
 b. – Mergem la nou film Tarantino diseară? – Eh, nu go.PRES.1PL to new.DEF film Tarantino tonight meh not sunt fan.
 'Shall we go to the new Tarantino film tonight?' 'Meh, I am not a fan'.

The unmarking of the complement genitive in (3) is facilitated by the relational meaning of fan and the juxtaposition of the two nouns. However, since synonym nouns do not accept unmarked genitives (see (5) above), we can conclude that the structure fan + unmarked genitive is rather idiomatic. We should note that the synonyms indicated in (5) are deverbal nouns (with adjectival uses as well), derived with the suffixes -tor, -ant or -at, and that their syntax is influenced by the syntax of the base verb<sup>7</sup>. The idiomatic nature of the structures in (3) is evidenced by the fact that other relational nouns do not accept unmarked NPs/DPs<sup>8</sup>:

<sup>4</sup> In French it was borrowed from English as well. Many international words were borrowed in Romanian through French, as a result of the influence of French culture.

<sup>5</sup> See also the structures from French: [...] je suis particulièrement fan des aéroports régionaux; [...] je suis même un fan de votre transparence politique (from Le Petit Robert, available online).

(8) a. **Nu sunt prieten Victor.*
 not be.PRES.1SG friend Victor.NOM≡ACC
 'I am not Victor's friend.'
 b. **Sunt vecin Iohannis.*
 be.PRES.1SG neighbour Iohannis.NOM≡ACC
 'I am Iohannis's neighbour.'

When expressed, the complement of relational nouns is in the genitive case, in the dative case or in the accusative case, preceded by a preposition:

(9) a. Nu sunt prietenul lui Victor.
 not be.PRES.1SG friend.DEF LUI<sub>GEN</sub> Victor
 b. Nu sunt îi sunt prieten lui Victor.
 not be.PRES.1SG CL.1SG.DAT be.PRES.1SG friend LUI<sub>DAT</sub> Victor
 c. Nu sunt prieten cu Victor.
 not be.PRES.1SG friend with Victor
 'I am not Victor's friend.' (for a–c above)

Another evidence of the idiomatic nature of the structures in (3) is the fact that the noun fanatic cannot allow unmarked DPs/NPs; its complement is either a PP or a DP marked for genitive:

(10) a. nu ești gamer înrăit sau fanatic după aplicății (f64.ro, <https://bit.ly/2Iv7cVk>)
 application.PL
 'you are not an addicted gamer or an applications fanatic'
 b. Cristiano Ronaldo, 35 de ani, este recunoscut drept un fanatic al pregătirii fizice. (digisport.ro, <https://bit.ly/3f1x1rM>)
 a fanatic AL.M.SG preparation.DEF.GEN physical.GEN
 'Cristiano Ronaldo, 35 years old, is known as a fanatic of physical preparation'

<sup>7</sup> See Dobrovie-Sorin and Giurgea 2013: 21–22, 663–717 and Pană Dindelegan 2013: 283–284 for more properties of deverbal nouns in Romanian.

<sup>8</sup> Spontaneously, other relational nouns can allow unmarked genitives; the following examples are taken from the press, from subtitles (the syntax of the titles and subtitles from the press is peculiar, many syntactic relations are not expressed for space or stylistic reasons): soră seropozitiv 'the sister of the seropositive patient', rudă victimă 'the victim's relative' (examples from Croitor, Dinică et al. 2009: 506).

- c. **fanatic aplicății*
fanatic application.PL.NOM≡ACC
- d. **fanatic pregătire fizică*
fanatic preparation.NOM≡ACC physical

We should note that the genitive in structures like (3) can be unmarked only if the noun fan does not have the definite article; the presence of the definite article requires the presence of the genitives markers:

(11) a. **Nu sunt fanul ciocolată.*
not be.PRES.1SG fan.DEF chocolate.NOM≡ACC

b. Nu sunt fanul ciocolatei.
not be.PRES.1SG fan.DEF chocolate.DEF.GEN
'I don't really like chocolate.' (for a–b above)

The second type of structures with unmarked genitives from contemporary Romanian is presented in (12). These examples are taken from longer sentences where the DP occurs in argument or adjunct positions:

(12) a. Mihai Polițeanu, membru fondator Inițiativa
Mihai Polițeanu member founding initiative.def.NOM≡ACC
România (gandul.ro, <https://bit.ly/2UpQkBF>)

b. vedeta Realitatea Tv (capital.ro, <https://bit.ly/3lxjUAR>)
star.DEF Reality.DEF.NOM≡ACC TV
'the star of Reality TV'

c. telespectatorii Prima TV (primatv.ro, <https://bit.ly/3lyONVR>)
spectator.PL.DEF Prima.NOM≡ACC TV

d. de la cititorii Libertatea (libertatea.ro, <https://bit.ly/35sIFsy>).
from reader.PL.DEF Liberty.DEF.NOM≡ACC
'from the readers of Libertatea [newspaper]'

e. cititorii Gândul (zf.ro, https://bit.ly/36zHgj7).
reader.PL.DEF thought.DEF.NOM≡ACC
'the readers of Gândul [newspaper]'

f. Mihaela Geoană, Președinte Fundația
Mihaela Geoană president foundation.DEF.NOM≡ACC
Renășterea (raportuldegarda.ro, https://bit.ly/32GmLjN).
rebirth.DEF
'Mihaela Geoană, the president of The Rebirth Foundation'

In all the examples above, the unmarked genitive is a flexible proper noun (re-categorised from a common noun) which denotes an institution, a company or an organization and has a genitive form in its paradigm (Inițiativei România, Realității TV, Primei TV, Libertății, Gândului, Fundației Renașterea). We believe the preference for the use of the unmarked form in (12) is extra-syntactically motivated: the need to preserve the form under which the name of the company / organization is known to the public. The same tendency to turn the proper name into an invariable one is evidenced in (13), where the proclitic, analytic genitive marker al is expressed, but the noun preserves its nominative-accusative form, instead of the genitive form which is generally present in the language after the marker al<sup>9</sup>:

(13) a. Noul director al Realitatea
 new.DEF manager AL.M.SG Reality.NOM≡ACC
FM (paginademedia.ro, <https://bit.ly/2IFHm0C>).
FM
 ‘The new manager of Reality TV’

b. Mai mulți cititori ai Libertatea
 more many reader.M.PL AL.M.PL Liberty.NOM≡ACC
au semnalat [...]. (libertatea.ro, <https://bit.ly/3f4cDpR>).
 have pointed out ‘Several readers of Liberty [newspaper] have pointed out...’

c. la punctele de contact ale Electrica
 at point.N.PL.DEF of contact AL.N.PL Electrica.NOM≡ACC
Furnizare SA. (electricafurnizare.ro, <https://bit.ly/38FE7RH>).
 supply SA
 ‘at the customers desks of Electrica Suppliers’

Similarly to all the structures with unmarked genitives in Romanian, the two nouns must be adjacent, juxtaposed in a strict order. The complement noun cannot be placed before the noun (such a word order would require both inflectional markers and the presence of the pronoun-determiner al), nor can it be separated from the noun by modifiers:

(14) a. **vedeta apreciată Realitatea TV*
 star.DEF esteemed Reality.DEF.NOM≡ACC TV
 ‘the esteemed star of Reality TV’

b. **cititorii în vârstă Gândul*
 reader.PL.DEF in age thought.DEF.NOM≡ACC
 ‘the older readers of Gândul [newspaper]’

<sup>9</sup> See the example in the first paragraph of this article: scoala nouă a elevului ‘the boy’s new school’.

The preferred strategy for expressing genitive case in structures like (12) is the insertion of a hypernym in the genitive case, such as mișcării (movement.DEF.GEN), postului (tv station.DEF.GEN), ziarului (newspaper.DEF.GEN):

(15) vedeta postului Realitatea TV
 star.DEF TV station.DEF.GEN Reality.DEF.NOM=ACC TV
 ‘the star of the TV station Reality TV’

The structures with juxtaposed nouns unmarked for case are quite frequent in the press, especially in titles and subtitles. In the literature, this pattern was described for nouns denoting functions of people, as an influence of the bureaucratic language: Anca Oprea, director Grădina Zoologică ‘Anca Oprea, the manager of the Zoological Garden’; președinte Autoritatea Națională pentru Protecția Familiei ‘the president of the National Authority for Family Protection’; președinte Patronatul Național al Viei și al Vinului ‘the president of the National Patronage of Vineyard and Wine’ (Croitor, Dinică et al. 2009: 506). However, a survey of the online press shows that these structures are more extended than it was previously described and they frequently involve names of companies and organizations:

(16) a. Clienții Astra Asigurări vor rămâne cu mașinile în service (money.ro, <https://bit.ly/2ICKOt1>)
 ‘The clients of Astra Insurances will remain with their cars in the service.’
 b. Cum contactez Serviciul de Relații cu Clienții Telekom România? (telekomro.custhelp.com, <https://bit.ly/3puE2Gj>)
 ‘How can I contact the Customers Department of Telekom Romania?’
 c. Ce spun oficialii Orange despre achiziția fostului Romtelecom după ani de zile în care au negat aceste planuri (zf.ro, <https://bit.ly/3lz4xb8>)
 ‘What the officials of Orange company say about the acquisition of the former Romtelecom after denying these plans for years’
 d. Murielle Lorilloux a fost numită CEO Vodafone România în 2017. (vodafone.ro, <https://bit.ly/3nqPtwQ>) ‘Murielle Lorilloux was appointed CEO of Vodafone Romania in 2017.’
 e. În intervalul 15 martie – 8 iunie, medicii Vier Pfoten au sterilizat și tratat un număr de 711 animale fără stăpân. (totb.ro, <https://bit.ly/35Bgh7P>) ‘Between March 15 and June 8, the doctors from Vier Pfoten sterilised and treated 711 homeless animals’
 f. Oficiul poștal Drăgănești Vlașca a funcționat în clădirea Romtelekom [...] (ziarulteleormanul.ro, <https://bit.ly/38JzOEY>)
 ‘The post office from Drăgănești Vlașca functioned in the building of Romtelekom’

g. Pentru a vizualiza sediile Electrica Furnizare din județul dumneavoastră, vă rugăm să selectați din lista de mai jos. (electricafurnizare.ro, <https://bit.ly/2IBe8A8>).

‘In order to see the headquarters of Electrica Supplier from your county, please select from the list below’

In this article, we described two types of unmarked genitives from contemporary Romanian: an idiomatic structure involving the relational noun fan, whose complement noun can be unmarked, and a structure with the ‘invariabilisation’ of proper names denoting organizations, companies or institutions, triggered by extra-syntactic factors (the need to preserve the name which is known to the public).

DOUĂ TIPURI DE GENITIV NEMARCAT ÎN ROMÂNA CONTEMPORANĂ

În acest articol prezentăm două tipuri de structuri în care cazul genitiv nu este marcat: (a) sintagme cu substantivul relațional fan, în structuri ca sunt fan ciocolată; nemarcarea genitivului în astfel de structuri este facilitată de sensul relațional al substantivului fan și de juxtapunerea complementului său; încrucișându-se cu alte substantive relationale nu acceptă nemarcarea cazului complementului, considerăm că structurile de tip fan ciocolată sunt de tip idiomatice; (b) sintagme cu nume proprii de organizații, companii, instituții, substantive flexibile care au disponibilitatea de a marca genitivul; considerăm că nemarcarea cazului în aceste structuri are explicații extrasintactice: dorința de a nu altera numele sub care este cunoscută publicului larg compania, organizația sau instituția; se ajunge astfel la o invariabilizare (partială) a numelui propriu.

Cuvinte-cheie: genitiv, marcarea cazului, invariabilizare, relațional, posesie.

Keywords: Genitive, case marking, ‘invariabilisation’, relational, possession.
