

NEOLOGICAL LEXIS IN CARTEA NUNȚII BY G. CĂLINESCU

Loredana-Maria GHIOALĂ (PhD student)

University of Craiova

Abstract

This article is an applied study, an analysis of the neological lexis in the novel Cartea nunții/ 'The wedding book' by George Călinescu. The diversified neological lexical elements outline an atmosphere specific to the love novel of the interwar period. The analysis highlights the semantics and expressiveness of the lexical elements which illustrate the literary language of Călinescu, and beyond them, the critic's talent as a novelist, too.

Key words: neological lexis, meaning, literary language, analysis, origin

Résumé

Cet article constitue une étude applicative d'analyse du lexique néologique dans le roman Cartea nunții de G. Călinescu. Par les éléments lexicaux néologiques diversifiés on crée une atmosphère spécifique au roman d'amour de la période d'entre les deux guerres. L'analyse fait valoir la sémantique et l'expressivité des éléments lexicaux, représentatifs pour la langue littéraire de Călinescu, et de plus, le talent de romancier du critique.

Mots-clés: lexique néologique, sens, langue littéraire, analyse, origine

The epoch between the two world wars was the second great era of Romanian literature, after the great classics. In a shorter period than the space of a generation, Romanian literature reaches a European level and can be compared to any great literature that was already constituted¹. During this period, there were several trends, some of them followed the old ones, the others, the new directions. The real battle was between tradition and innovation, the prose becoming more and more objective.

This period had a defining role in Romanian literature, which exceeded the provincial spirit, and it was also important for literary language, which was lexically enriched during this period of transition. Thus, through the objective, realistic novel Cartea nunții (1933), we may notice the multifaceted personality of G. Călinescu as a novelist, poet, critic and literary historian. One can also see the diversity of the vocabulary in this novel, which is a love novel, presenting the picture of the Romanian school in the interwar period and the historical period depicted in terms of innovations, civilization and progress at social, economic, technological level, etc.

This research is based on processing the material (counting 80 neologisms), taken from the novel Cartea nunții by G. Călinescu². The proposed analysis aims at presenting the neological lexis in the love novel in the interwar period. While conducting this research, we considered the structure, origin, as well as morphological and semantic observations.

¹ Al. Piru, Istoria literaturii române de la început până azi, București, Editura Univers, 1981.

² G. Călinescu, Cartea nunții, București, Editura Eminescu, 2003.

1. According to origin, neological terms are:

a. internal creations: cangrenat (< a cangrena): „O ultimă licărire a orizontului bronză suprafața cangrenată a smârcurilor...”³/ ‘A last glimpse of the horizon browned the gangrenous surface of the swamps’, crispat (< a crispa): „...rămase în aer ca o gheară crispată.”⁴/ ‘... remained in the air like a contracted claw’, denaturat (< a denatura): „...mirosea a spirt denaturat, a cafea și gutui.”⁵/ ‘...it smelt like denatured alcohol, coffee and quinces.’, ispită (< a ispiti): „Jim încercă să se smulgă din aceste ispite absurde...”⁶/ ‘Jim tried to tear himself away from these absurd temptations...’, neverosimil (ne- + verosimil): „Casca netedă, lucioasă a părului încercuia simetric ovalul neverosimil și grațios...”⁷/ ‘The smooth, glossy helmet of the hair encircled symmetrically the unlikely, graceful oval face...’, urzeală (urzi + -eală): „Ploaia cădea în fire vizibile, reci, într-o mare și universală urzeală...”⁸/ ‘The rain was falling in visible, cold threads, in a large and universal warp...’.

b. borrowings of French origin: anacronic (< Fr. anacronique), ascetică (< Fr. ascétique), baldachin (< Fr. baldaquin), cadaveric (< Fr. cadavérique), a deraia (< Fr. dérailer), eroziune (< Fr. érosion), fad (< Fr. fade), friabilitate (< Fr. friabilité), fronton (< Fr. fronton), indicibil (< Fr. indicible), lividitate (< Fr. lividité), lucid (< Fr. lucide), meditativă (< Fr. méditatif), miceniană (< Fr. mycenien), miraj (< Fr. mirage), monstruoziitate (< Fr. monstruosité), perspectivă (< Fr. perspective), placid (< Fr. placide), placiditate (< Fr. placidité), protocolar (< Fr. protocolaire), protuberant (< Fr. protubérant), a recenza (< Fr. recenser), repulsie (< Fr. répulsion), reverie (< Fr. réverie), rigid (< Fr. rigide): „...prin educația rigidă avea puțină comunicare sufletească...”/ ‘... having little spiritual communication due to the rigid education...’ (p. 24), sacadat (< Fr. saccadé): „...pocnea sacadat un glas în urechea lui Jim...”/ ‘...a voice was jerily hitting Jim’s ear...’ (p. 12), senilitate (< Fr. sénilité): „...și zbârcirea unui colț de buză vesteau senilitatea.”/ ‘... and a wrinkle on a lip corner proclaimed senility.’ (p. 24), a tenta (< Fr. tenter): „L-ar fi tentat de asemenea să încerce cu podul palmei netezirea părului...”/ ‘It would have been tempting for him to try to smooth the hair with the palm...’ (p. 10), ulcerație (< Fr. ulcération): „...eroziunile se prefăcuseră în ulcerații negre...”/ ‘...the erosions had turned into black ulcerations...’ (p. 5); of German origin: eteric (< Germ. ätherisch): „Domnișoara dormita îngândurată în bătaia apelor eterice...”/ ‘The young lady was dozing, thoughtful, in the light of the ethereal waters...’ (p. 8); of Italian origin: innumerabil (< It. innumerable): „...și totul se topea într-un țârâit innumerabil și strident de greieri...”/ ‘...and everything was melting in an innumerable and shrill chirp of crickets...’ (p. 12); of Latin origin: plagă (< Lat. plaga): „Jim acoperi cu batista plaga rezemătorii sale...”/ ‘Jim covered with a handkerchief the wound of his back...’ (p. 5); of Turkish origin: sofa (< Tk. sofa): „...culcând capul în unghiul dinspre fereastră al sofalei.”/ ‘...laying his head within the window angle of the sofa.’ (p. 12); with multiple etymology: abstract (< Fr. abstrait, Lat. abstratus, Germ. abstrakt), absurd (< Fr. absurde, Lat. absurdus), angelic (< Fr. angélique, Lat. angelicus), austeritate (< Fr. austérité, Lat. austeritas, -atis), cadență (< Fr. cadence, It. cadenza), candoare (< Fr. candeur, Lat. candor, -oris), concupiscentă (<

³ Călinescu, 2003, p. 9.

⁴ Idem, ibidem, p. 9.

⁵ Ibidem, p. 93.

⁶ Ibidem, p. 14.

⁷ Ibidem, p. 8.

⁸ Ibidem, p. 97.

Fr. concupiscence, It. concupiscenza), configurație (< Fr. configuration, Lat. configuratio), congestie (< Fr. congestion, Lat. congestio), contemplație (< Fr. contemplation, Lat. contemplatio), contigență (< Fr. contingence, Lat. contingentia), deliberație (< Fr. délibération, Lat. deliberatio), ebrietate (< Fr. Lébriété, Lat. ebrietas, -atis), efuziune (< Fr. effusion, Lat. effusio, -onis), friabilă (< Fr. friable, Lat. friabilis), a ilustra (< Fr. illustrer, Lat. illustrare), iluzie (< Fr. illusion, Lat. illusio), impertinent (< Fr. impertinent, Lat. impertinens, -ntis), impulsiune (< Fr. impulsion, Lat. impulsio), inert (< Fr. inerte, Lat. iners, -tis), inexorabil (< Fr. inexorable, Lat. inexorabilis), infantil (< Fr. infantile, Lat. infantilis), invazie (< Fr. invasion, Lat. invasio), livid (< Fr. livide, Lat. lividus), mortadelă (< Fr. mortadelle, It. mortadella), retenție (< Fr. rétenition, Lat. retentio, -onis), rictus (< Fr., Lat. rictus), severă (< Fr. sévère, Lat. severus), a stagna (< Fr. stagner, Lat. stagnare), strident (< Fr. strident, Lat. stridens, -ntis), tactilă (< Fr. tactile, Lat. tactilis): „Amândoi se reasează la loc...cu o ușoară febră tactilă.”/ ‘They both sat down again ... with a slight tactile fever.’ (p. 10), vanitate (< Fr. vanité, Lat. vanitas): „Destul de lucid...să înăbușe la vreme impulsunile de vanitate...”/ ‘...Lucid enough... to suppress in time the impulses of vanity...’ (p. 5), vertiginos (< Fr. vertigineux, Lat. vertiginosus): „...coborându-se apoi vertiginos într-o mare pâlnie, plină cu cirezi de arbuști și tufe.”/ ‘... then rapidly descending into a large funnel, filled with herds of shrubs and bushes.’ (p. 6), voluptate (< Fr. volupté, Lat. voluptas, -atis): „Sărutarea căzută pe un colț al gurii i se păru de o voluptate indicibilă.”/ ‘The kiss fallen on a corner of the mouth seemed of an unspeakable voluptuousness.’, vulgar (< Fr. vulgaire, Lat. vulgaris): „Destul de lucid...să înăbușe la vreme impulsunile de vanitate vulgară...”/ ‘...Lucid enough...to suppress in time the impulses of vulgar vanity...’ (p. 5).

2. The meaning of neologisms indicates that there are several types of words:

a. monosemantic: austeritate: „...în materie de croitorie țineau la o eleganță matură și o nobilă austeritate.”/ ‘...in matters of tailoring they cultivated mature elegance and noble austerity.’ (p. 11); candoare: „...al cărui imperceptibil șanț se pierdea în candoarea circulară a gulerului.”/ ‘...whose imperceptible groove was lost in the circular candour of the collar.’ (p. 8); concupiscență: „Concupiscențe vagi îl încercau când arunca ochii...”/ ‘A vague concupiscence overwhelmed him when he was glancing...’ (p. 10); congestie: „...îi învăluia tâmpilele într-o rețea de congestii calde.”/ ‘...enveloped his temples in a network of warm congestions.’ (p. 16); contemplație: „...asemenea contemplații angelice i se păreau fade.”/ ‘...such angelic contemplations seemed fade.’ (p. 14); ebrietate: „...și-i dădeau o ascunsă ebrietate a pulsului.”/ ‘...and gave him a hidden intoxication of the pulse.’ (p. 10); friabil: „...bureți vineți de ziduri și urechelnițe cu zeci de picioare, fugind pe o tencuială friabilă.”/ ‘...bluish mushrooms on walls and earwigs with dozens of feet, running down on a crumbly plaster.’ (p. 11); lividitate: „În lividitatea amurgului cete continue de sălcii se târau...”/ ‘In the lividness of twilight continuous groups of willows were creeping...’ (p. 13); meditativ: „...apoi se lăsă pe spate, într-o poziție calmă, rece și meditativă.”/ ‘Then he leaned back, in a calm, cool and meditative position.’ (p. 5); placiditate: „...dându-i un rictus autoritar în ciuda placidității întregii sale figuri.”/ ‘... giving him an authoritarian grin despite the placidness of his looks.’ (p. 9); sofa: „...culcând capul în unghiul dinspre fereastră al sofalei.”/ ‘...laying his head within the window angle of the sofa.’ (p. 12); ulcerație: „...eroziunile se prefăcuseră în ulcerații negre...”/ ‘...the erosions had turned into black ulcerations...’ (p. 5); vanitate: „...și să înăbușe la vreme impulsunile de vanitate vulgară...”/ ‘... and to suppress in time the impulses of vulgar vanity...’ (p. 5), etc.

b. polysemantic: impulsiune 1. tendency caused by a psychological, emotional factor. 2. movement induced by an external force to a body: „Destul de lucid pentru ca să-și dea seama de mișcările sale sufletești și să înăbușe la vreme impulsiunile de vanitate vulgară...”/ ‘Quite lucid to be aware of his spiritual movements and to suppress in time the impulses of vulgar vanity...’ (p. 5); repulsie 1. disgust, horror, instinctive aversion. 2. (phys.) force by virtue of which two bodies or two molecules reject each other: „Mirosul de piei încinse și de unsori îl făcu să privească cu mai multă repulsie...”/ ‘The smell of hot leather and paraffin made him look with more repulsion...’ (p. 5); reverie 1. state of daydreaming. 2. small vocal or instrumental piece of a dreamy nature: „Cu ochii deschiși, privea în penumbra compartimentului, în care reveriiile sale își confundau contururile...”/ ‘His eyes open, watching in the penumbra of the compartment, in which his reveries confused their contours...’ (p. 13); senilitate 1. pathological condition caused by aging, with structural and functional involuntional changes, either physical or mental. 2. (geol.) old age stage of the cycle of erosion: „...și zbârcirea unui colț de buză vesteau senilitatea.”/ ‘... and a wrinkle on a lip corner proclaimed senility.’ (p. 24), etc.

3. From the standpoint of semantic relations, neologisms establish a relation of:

a. synonymy: candoare–inocență, cangrenat–necrozat–putred–mortificat, contemplație–visare, ebrietate–beție, eroziune–coroziune–erodare, a ilustra–a reprezenta, iluzie–închipuire–nălucă–miraj–amăgire, impertinent–obraznic, invazie–cotropire, lucid–conștient–limpede, meditativ–reflexiv–visător, placid–indiferent–calm–monoton, repulsie–antipatie–dezgust, rictus–grimasă–schimonoseală–strâmbătură, sever–grav–malign–periculos–primejdios–serios, a tenta–a ispită–a ademeni–a amăgi, vanitate–înfumurare, etc.

b. antonymy: absurd–logic–rațional–rezonabil, candoare–vinovăție, fad–expresiv, iluzie–deziluzie, impertinent–politicos, repulsie–admirație–atracție, vanitate–modestie, vulgar–elegant–grațios–rafinat, sever–indulgent, etc.

4. From the morphological standpoint, the neological lexis is classified as follows:

- feminine nouns: austeritate, cadență, concupiscentă, candoare, configurație, congestie, contemplație, contingență, deliberație, ebrietate, efuziune, eroziune, friabilitate, iluzie, impulsiune, invazie, ispită, lividitate, monstruoziitate, mortatela, perspectivă, placiditate, plagă, repulsie, retenție, reverie, senilitate, sofa, ulcerație, vanitate, voluptate; neutral nouns: baldachin, fronton, miraj, rictus; masculine nouns: micienian;

- adjectives: abstract, absurd, anacronic, angelic, ascetic, cadaveric, cangrenat, crispat, exumat, fad, friabil, impertinent, indicibil, inefabil, inert, inexorabil, innumerabil, lucid, meditativ, neverosimil, placid, protocolar, protuberant, rigid, sacadat, sever, strident, tactil, vertiginos, vulgar;

- verbs: a deraia, a ilustra, a recenza, a stagna, a tenta.

5. From a stylistic standpoint, expressiveness is achieved through:

- chromatic epithets: „...eroziunile se prefăcuseră în ulcerații negre, lipicioase, adevărată lepră a sofalelor bătrâne.”/ ‘...the erosions had turned into black, sticky ulcerations, a real leprosy of old sofas.’ (p. 5); „...plușurile groase ale fotoliilor de culoarea tutunului uscat.”/ ‘... the thick plush of the armchairs of tobacco colour.’ (p. 5); „...examinând tavanul alburii al compartimentului...”/ ‘...examining the white ceiling of the compartment...’ (p. 5); „...șipând prelung la ivirea capetelor albe de pod...”/ ‘...screaming long when the white bridge ends appeared...’, (p. 6), etc.

The neological lexis of the love novel Cartea nunții can be studied from many perspectives. In this novel, Călinescu promotes literary language by enriching the vocabulary with neologisms, either specialized or non-specialized. As a fine intellectual, between a neologism and a common word, he prefers the neologism. These neologisms are monosemantic and polysemantic. The author uses them with ease, in an appropriate manner, as a fine connoisseur of reality.

Morphologically, the neological lexis is dominated by nouns (37 occurrences). They are mostly used with plurals. Most neological nouns are feminine.

As for adjectives, those with four endings are predominant.

Neological verbs generally end with the suffix -a.

According to origin, we can notice internal creations, and especially borrowings from Romance languages (French, Italian) and non-Romance languages.

The neological terms analyzed in this paper belong to different areas, so there are terms from physics and chemistry (configurație, inert, repulsie), medicine (cangrenat, congestie, iluzie, plagă, ulceratie), geology (eroziune) and art (fronton, micenian).

We consider that some aspects are important, i.e. etymological aspects (one can notice the predominance of French etymology neologisms and neologisms with multiple etymology) and semantic aspects (one can notice the contextual mobility and the use of figurative meaning).

In conclusion, G. Călinescu by a detailed technique in the description of both homes, interiors and in the marking of physical features, clothing and hairstyle, made use of a diversified neological lexis, which ensured the development of literary language in the interwar period.

Thus, the novel Cartea nunții offers a real source of development and enrichment of the existing vocabulary, through neologisms of French, Italian, German origin, etc.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

- Academia Română, Dicționarul explicativ al limbii române, București, Editura Univers Enciclopedic Gold, 2009.
- Academia Română, Dicționarul ortografic, ortoepic și morfologic al limbii române, București, Editura Univers Enciclopedic Gold, 2010.
- Bidu-Vrânceanu, Angela, Lexicul specializat în mișcare de la dicționare la texte, București, Editura Universității din București, 2007.
- Călinescu, G., Cartea nunții, București, Editura Eminescu, 2003.
- Ciolan, Alexandru, Dimitrescu, Florica (coordonator), Lupu, Coman, Dicționar de cuvinte recente, ediția a III-a, București, Editura Logos, 2013.
- Constantinescu, Pompiliu, Romanul interbelic românesc, București, Editura Minerva, 1977.
- Dimitrescu, Florica, Dinamica lexicului românesc-ieri și azi, Cluj-Napoca, București, Editura Clusium, Logos, 1995.
- Piru, Al., Istoria literaturii române de la început până azi, București, Editura Univers, 1981.
- Stoichițoiu-Ichim, Adriana, Vocabularul limbii române actuale, București, Editura ALL, 2008.